

NEW PRINCIPALS FOR TWO SCHOOLS

Only a Few Changes Made in Teaching Staff of Fairmont District.

The Board of Education of Fairmont Independent district has named teachers for the various schools of the district for the year 1917-18.

Two changes were made in the principals of ward schools. Ralph S. Beckner, for several years principal of the Farmington graded schools, was elected to the position of principal of the Miller school to succeed Lieutenant O. A. Watson of Company I, First West Virginia National Guard. Mr. Beckner is a graduate of the Glenville Normal school and has also attended the summer school at the state university.

Lawrence White, a native of Wood county, and a graduate of the Fairmont Normal school in the class of 1917, was elected to the place of principal of the Barnes school to succeed his brother, Frank S. White, who was made a member of the Normal school faculty recently at a meeting of the State Board of Regents.

Other new teachers appointed as members of the high school faculty are Miss Edna Miller, of Fairmont, and Miss Daisy Wedding, of Indianapolis, Ind. Miss Wedding is a graduate of Dupau University, and is a sister of C. C. Wedding, president of the American Valve and Tank company of Fairmont.

New teachers appointed for the grades are Miss Florence Richardson and Miss Frances Kinsey, of Keyser.

The following are the teachers who will serve in the schools of the city in addition to those already named: Otis G. Wilson, superintendent; Ethel M. Horaman, music; Caroline E. Break, drawing; Hazel Frey, sewing; Beulah Walker, cooking; L. C. Minor, penmanship; William Stanhagen, M. T.

RENEWS ATTACK ON TEXT BOOK BOARD

Governor Cornwell Made
Speech Before Supreme Court Yesterday.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 13.—Governor John J. Cornwell again yesterday supplied the fireworks in the resumption of the school text-book controversy before the Supreme Court of Appeals when he appeared personally as counsel for himself and requested the court to establish a precedent and decide once and for all, if it lay in the power of "a disgruntled book agent to hale the governor of the state before the courts of the state."

The governor joined with Attorney General E. T. England and Fred O. Blue as counsel for the State Board of Public Works in argument against the petition of W. H. Wheeler & Co., book publishers, for a writ of mandamus to compel the Board of Public Works to approve the bond of the company in connection with its contract as recently awarded by the State School Book Commission.

Reiterating his charges made yesterday in his written answer to the petition of the book company, the governor made an impassioned speech against the spectacle the proceedings presented. He contended, too, and was joined in the contention by counsel for the Board of Public Works, that the School Book Commission was appointed illegally and therefore had no right to make the contract; that the bond is a part of the contract, which is still unsigned, and therefore there is no contract until the bond has been approved; that the duty of the Board of Public Works is ministerial and not under authority of the courts; that judicial and executive branches of the government are on the same footing and neither has authority over the other; that a governor is not subject to mandamus proceedings, this being a last resort of defense since the governor is a member of the Board of Public Works.
